PHARAOR'S CORN A FAKE.

Barupean Selentists and Journalists Find That They Have Been

Home time ago there was a wonderful certain grains of ancient Egyptian corn which had been planted in Germany and had some to life. The grains, they said, had been found been planted by a Dreaden florist. Some days later the corn appeared above ground, much to the surprise of scientists, who did not suppose that there was any life in grains which were from 4,000 to 5,000 years old. The corn, however, was curtainly growing, and even the most incredulous among them soon became convinced that grains have a lease of life to which there is practical ly no limit.

Alas! A buy employed by the Dresold church as speaking tenderly to den floriet has now confessed that he the people and almost complaining planted some other grains in the same place where his master had planted the ed to the ground after sorving the Egyptian ones, and only a few hours five years the people had found a This was and news for the scientists and pleasant church home, a quite retreat for the numerous journalists who had from the cares of life, cool in sum. written enthusiastially about the miracmer and warm in winter within alous qualities of the ancient grains of
